“ Dear Abdiel,

Recently there have been talks about a high school reunion for the class of 2015. We were wondering what you were up to as well as how you were doing. We had no idea that you had passed away from cancer.

You were a friend a I made in middle school. You were funny and very charming. Always great to be around. I remembered that you were proud of your heritage, loved baseball, star wars, and yu-gi-oh.

I'll always think fondly of our webcam chats with our friends. You'd always think of a funny prank call idea or share hilarious things for all of us to laugh at. I'm not sure how it started but some how I ended up calling you Obi-Wan (Obi-Wan Kenobi from Star Wars) as a nickname. It's cool that you have a degree in criminal justice. You have a very just and honorable personality like Obi-Wan.

I hope you rest in peace my friend. I'll continue to keep the yu-gi-oh cards you gifted me in good care since they were from your collection.

*Sincerely,
K.M.*

“ Abdiel (Johan, or Fader as I knew him when we first met through video games) was like an older brother to me . we met around 7 years ago and quickly grew attached to each other through video games and other common interests like baseball and wrestling. we talked on a weekly basis for 7 years, he rily was my best friend. when he told me about his cancer diagnosis i texted him every two weeks to ask how he was doing. until towards the end and we were playing GTA one day and he tells me he’s coming towards the end of his chemo and it isn’t working. in my mind i never had a doubt he would overcome this. never would i think this would happen , i was always confident he’d get through it. that time playing gta his coughing was getting worse and more frequent. after that it had seemingly slipped my mind to text him that second week and one day soon after i remembered to. nothing in the universe hurt more than text my friend and getting a reply from his mom . she told me he passed last thursday(from the time of the text) i believe. there isn’t a day that goes by where i think about my brother , he was really like a brother to me . his soul was the kindest i’ve ever met . i can just imagine him right now teasing me about how his celtics which he loved so much beat my miami heat . although i live across the country , one day i intend to visit you my friend . i miss you and you know it . i hope if his mom ever sees this she reaches out to me for anything she could ever need . also his little cousin ethan , he rily loved that kid and would always send me videos of them joking around together. i love you brother- steven
