“ Betty spoke so freely it was like listening to an artist create in the color of candor. She didn't suffer fools (but still, I believe she liked me anyway). Betty was fearless in deftly letting you know exactly what was on her mind and she did it all without a net (or regret).

I love the picture you decided to share with us! That was the cat eyeing the mouse just before the pounce. Thank you for that.

ALL of us at Medica are deeply saddened by Betty's passing and we wish her family every measure of comfort during this enormous loss.

“ Trisha and family,

I have grown to know Betty well over the years as I took care of her feet every three weeks like clock work. She would talk of her kids, grandkids, Rick and the dogs. She was one-of-a-kind. She had an amazing sense of humor and it was always evident how much her family meant to her. I remember the joy she had when she shared the news of Charlotte's birth, and how proud she was when she would leave her appointments to attend Dylan's soccer games. She loved going to Foxwoods and heading to Winnepesaukee in the summer. I remember all the emotions that came with her illness. But despite sometimes feeling angry and defeated, she never let it get her down. I'm certain she's in heaven giving the big guy holy hell for taking her too soon. She will surely be missed by anyone who knew her.

Deepest condolences,

Jill Carey and Donna and Michael Cummings, More Than Hair Day Spa, Dracut.

“ Betty lived across the street from Nancy and I. She was always fixing up her house or working in her yard. She always had a smile for everyone I remember the great parties we used to have. Nancy will be there to greet her in heaven.

“ I have known Betty for 15 years meeting her at work. She was one of the funniest people I knew. She was always smiling, laughing, working hard, making her famous Christmas punch at the company holiday luncheon. Lots of laughs about stories of her family, they're close and i loved to hear them.
She truly was a great person to know. I will always remember her
