“ Two years later and I am just finding out due to a stupid argument we had over the dumbest shit. Tracy from 7th grade onward you were not a friend, you were my family. More so than those related by blood. Never did I imagine a world without you in it and tonight the moon doesnt seem as bright and just reflects the pieces of my broken heart. I'm so sorry for that stupid fight I'm so sorry my last words to you were not "I love you" because trust I never stopped. So many memories all tangled together between the two of us, you will never be forgotten I will see your smile in the stars hear your laughter in the wind and feel your hug by the light of the moon. It's time for your soul to shine and for me to find some kind of peace in a world that no longer makes sense. Rest in peace my beautiful friend say hi to your mom and my parents for me and until we meet again you will stay alive in your own little spot in my heart. As long as it beats you are not gone
I love you forever and I'm going to listen to all of our songs and smile because as much as losing you hurts, never having you would have been so much worse. I love you sweetheart rest easy

“ I've known Tracy for about 6 years. She was a beautiful person, inside and out. When ever we would get on the phone together, we could never seem to hang up. She was deeply loved and she will be just as deeply missed. DV

“ Tracy and I met in High School and remained in touch even at times when we lived states apart. When I think of you my dear friend I will recall your genuine kindness, your absolute admiration for your boys (Dylan, Jarred and Matt) and your selflessness while caring for your Mom.

My text messages have gone quiet and my world got a little darker the day it was time for you to go.

I'm grateful to have called you a friend and with what grace you left us. You will be in my thoughts. Sincere condolences to her loved ones.

“ Tracy was my cousin who I never got to meet in person. However we talked quite a bit on FB. She was the first person I messaged when I learned aunt Dee Dee passed and we cried together. I am very sadden by her passing . I wish so much that I could be there to celebrate her life. Tracy, I will meet you behind the stars! Until then, FLY.

Tracy and I first met in 1996 and she has been a constant presence in my life. We had great laughs, great discussions and enjoyed swapping the occasional joke. She was a great friend and I will miss her every day.
